

The stack grows towards the lower addresses. The stack pointer points to the top of the stack which is at the bottom of the diagram where the lower addresses are. The addresses at the top are the higher addresses.

The NOP operations permit the return address to go to the top of the lower address to the jump address. This allows the attacker to jump to the address where the malicious code exists and execute it.